REFERENCE :

This report has reference to item(s) submitted to FDLE on September 13, 2007 by Det Steve Bohling and analyzed for data of possible evidentiary value referenced to a death investigation

EXHIBIT(S) :

Container	Exhibit	Description
01.000.000.00	Exhibit 1	One (1) Gateway W323-UL1 model laptop computer with serial number N6365D1007522 with one (1) Hitachi Travelstar model hard drive with serial number MPA25CQ4GH83TE.

RESULT (S):

Exhibit 1 contained one hard drive. A forensic image of the hard drive was created and analyzed using Encase software from Guidance Software. Active and deleted files were examined. Unallocated areas, where previously deleted information may be found, were also examined. Files, data and images of possible evidentiary value were copied to the DVD-R in the folder titled "\20070308645\Exh-1\" in container 01.002.000.00. Encase reports and file listings, which include information of possible evidentiary value, are also included on the DVD-Rs

A keyword search was performed. A listing of the keywords and frequency of occurrence was saved as "Keyword Search Report for Exh-1.rtf" under the directory titled "\20070308645\Exh-1\Unallocated Data Files". In addition, text fragments of potential evidentiary value were saved to the file titled "Text Fragments from Exh-1.rtf" in this directory

REMARK(S) :

A forensic backup was saved on four DVD-Rs in container 01.001.000.00. Please be advised that all data of potential evidentiary value is still present on the media that you submitted for analysis. The DVD-Rs mentioned in this report have been returned with your evidence. Additionally, analytical case file notes for this case are available upon request.
